

“Developing and Building the Athlete: Sports Rehabilitation to Sports Performance”

Dan Enz, PT, LAT and Marc Sherry, PT, LAT, CSCS, PES was awarded the 2004 WPTA Physical Therapist of the year. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison Physical Therapy Program in 1996 with highest honors. He also became a Certified Athletic Trainer in 1996. He has worked with various athletes on sports performance programs. Dan is an invited lecturer for the University of Wisconsin Athletic Training program and has been invited to speak at several sports medicine symposiums.

Marc Sherry, PT, LAT, CSCS, PES is a physical therapist and performs research at the UW Health Sports Medicine Physical Therapy Clinic. He graduated with highest honors from the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse Physical Therapy Program in 1994. He became a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist in 1996 and a Performance Enhancement Specialist through the National Academy of Sports Medicine in 2007. Marc received the 2004 JOSPT Excellence in Clinical Research award and the 2006 WPTA Clinical Excellence award. Marc has worked with high school, college and professional athletes on sports performance programs. He has also given over 60 local, regional, and national and international lectures.